Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 67, 75, 97 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Paul et al. (6,258,125).

With respect to claims 67,75,97 Paul et al disclose a spinal fusion implant comprising a first end portion and second end portion, as best seen in FIG.9, an elongate bone portion (70,70') defining a longitudinal axis, and having a generally rectangular cross-section transverse to the longitudinal axis; as best seen in FIG.9, the bone portion comprising a first bone engaging surface (14), a second bone engaging surface (16); and a first side wall extending between the first and second bone engaging surfaces, wherein the first side wall comprises a concave outer surface; as best seen figure 9, extending axially between the first and second end portions; as best seen in FIG.9. and a second sidewall arranged opposite the first side wall and having a substantially planar portion (22) ,as best seen in FIG.9, defining a flat outer surface extending between the first and second bone engaging surfaces and axially along a length of the elongate bone portion between the first and second end portions; and wherein the concave outer surface of the first side wall is positioned opposite the flat outer surface of the second side wall; as best seen in FIG.9.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 63-65,69-74,76-89, 91,92,94-96,98-104 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Paul et al. (6,258,125) in view of Dove et al. (4,904,261).

It is noted that that Paul et al et al disclose all the limitations; as set forth above, except for a second side wall comprising a convex outer surface extending axially between the first and second end portions; as claimed by applicant. However, in a similar art, Dove et al evidence the use of an implant with a second sidewall comprising a concave outer surface extending axially between a first and second end portions to act as a spacer between adjacent vertebrae at the peripheries of the ends thereof which are structurally the strongest parts.

Therefore, given the teaching of Dove et al, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art, at the time the invention was made to modify the device of Paul et a, as taught by Dove et al., by incorporating a second sidewall comprising a convex outer surface extending axially between the first and second end portions to act as a spacer between adjacent vertebrae at the peripheries of the ends thereof which are structurally the strongest parts.

Response to Amendment

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 63-104 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

A shortened statutory period for reply to this action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action.
